Read more about the details of the game and how play works for this level. Watch the video tutorial as well! The disaster will strike level 16! In disaster Will Strike Level 16, the challenge is fully upgraded by just looking at the game's setting: teething cartwheels, swinging toothed rods, metal barrels, and hanging sheds with a glass floor. There's definitely a lot going on at this level. You will probably be overwhelmed with everything on the screen. It's okay, take it all in because, in the process, you can use all these things to break all the eggs. This time you will have to work on winds and landslides. Before doing anything try to absorb the whole setting. Know what specific ingredients should kill eggs. Once you've figured that out, you can start striking disasters one by one! For this degree, it would be natural to use the wind to get that glass floor broken by swinging bars as well as cartwheel ready to catch eggs. The problem will be that the cartwheel will actually move when the wind is struck. So to avoid that, use other disasters to ensure that the setup is not affected in the process. In this case, the wind can roll cartwheels so to make them stay in place, we landslide to create a space that can make the wheels stuck in place. This should be done before hitting the wind. For the remaining egg, use the remaining disaster to kill it. Don't expect to always get everything first, that's why we're here to help you!
